FTC’s programs are aimed at strengthening families, preventing the trauma of child abuse and neglect, and helping low-income, at-risk children and families heal when abuse has occurred. No child is turned away because they do have insurance or the means to pay for the care they need.

FTC remained open as essential services throughout the pandemic, giving highest priority to children and teens referred by law enforcement and child welfare.

We are proud to have delivered these vital services during our fiscal year from July 2020 through June 2021 in the height of COVID-19 restrictions:

1) Trauma Informed, Research-Based Mental Health Service
Mental health crisis and therapy services are specialized for children who have been seriously abused or are at high risk for abuse. In FY 20/21, during the pandemic, For The Child served 822 children and teens in this program (718 with MediCal and 104 uninsured). The services are delivered through two programs: Child and Adolescent Mental Health Program (CAMH) that provides trauma-informed mental health treatment for children with MediCal; and Child Abuse and Neglect Safety Net Program (CAP), providing trauma-focused mental health treatment services for children who do not qualify for MediCal and whose families have no other means to pay for the care their child needs. All therapy is available in English and Spanish, with both in-person and telehealth (virtual) methods.

2) 24-Hour Child Abuse Response Team
FTC is an integral part of an L.A. County Certified Sexual Assault Response Team, providing on-call emergency response to three area hospitals in Long Beach, Torrance, and San Pedro whenever child sexual abuse is suspected in a child, teen, or young adult (infant to 21 years old). FTC trained and clinically supervised advocates give support during forensic medical exams and police interviews and link young victims to court information, and follow-up care within 48 hours (at For The Child or in other communities as needed). FTC responded to 62 emergency calls during FY 20/21, following strict COVID-19 prevention protocols.

3) Family/Parent Supports
FTC augments mental health programming with Family/Parent support workshops and activities that help families support their child’s recovery and prevent future abuse. The services found in this program are designed to promote specific child abuse protective factors, capacities and conditions in families and children that mitigate or help to reduce the risk of abuse and neglect.
